NOTES AND COMMENTS.

It is stated in a recent issue of Indian Engineering that "the railway survey party under the direction of Mr. Way, Engineer-in-Chief, accompanied by an officer of the Intelligence Department and a small military escort will leave Rangoon early. This party will examine the Hukong Valley route to Upper Assam." At last, eh? There is nothing very new in this. As far back as 1829 Lord William Bentinck, and in 1836 Lord Auckland, interested themselves in the question of opening communication with the Shan States and South-west China. In 1861, too, Sir Arthur Phayre, the first Chief Commissioner of Burma, recommended the sanction of a survey to Kiang Hung, and in 1865 Lord Salisbury, then Viscount Cranborne, acknowledging the great importance of the question, sanctioned a railway survey to China of what was practically the route which Mr. Holt Hallett and Mr. Colquhoun vigorously advocated in an address delivered before the London Chamber of Commerce in November, 1887. On that occasion Mr. Hugh Matheson, speaking for the London Chamber, said:-

"We all recognise the imperative necessity for Great Britain not only to conserve and improve her commercial relations with foreign countries, but also to take advantage of every new opening, and to see to it that we obtain our full share of the trade of new districts. Within a comparatively recent period British merchants have been 'called upon to face an amount of serious competition in the East formerly unknown; and it cannot be denied that the establishment of the French in Tongking and the favourable conditions obtained by them from the Government of China for entrance into the South-western portion of that vast Empire are deserving of our careful attention."

And yet, notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Needham, a Political Officer of the Indian Government, and party, surveyed from Assam valley over the Patol mountains into the basin of the Irrawaddy in 1889, and there had been for many years repeated efforts to induce the Imperial authorities to take definite action in respect to railway communication from India, through Burma, to south-west China, yet it is only in this year of grace that anything of a fairly business-like nature is being done to tap the vast trade of the populous south-western provinces of China, and this, be it noted, long after the French have definitely secured very important trade concessions in the region in question, and Russia has accomplished a feat in diplomatic gymnastics which places in her hands, and completely at her mercy, the major portion of the trade of northern and north-eastern China, and probably of Korea as well.

Another example of the indiscreet and short-sighted blundering and apparent incapacity of the British Government is to be found in the agitation which has been going on for years with a view to having the West River opened to foreign trade. Everything the local Chamber of Commerce could do in the matter it has done and yet the West River is as firmly closed against the "Western barbarian" to-day as ever it was, and this, too, although on the 1st May, 1893, Herr von Brandt, in the course of an interview with the Hongkong Chamber of Commerce, urged the Chamber to "agitate for the opening of the Two Kwang provinces, and through them of Yunnan to foreign trade and navigation," and at the same time added, "the Chamber," in so doing, "would be undertaking a work which has good prospects of success, especially as representations on this subject might not be unfavourably received by the high Chinese provincial authorities." The Chamber, if our memory serves us correctly, acted on the late German Minister's advice, and yet nothing has been done. Why? Is it because, to quote Sir Nicholas O'Connor's words (in an interview with the local Chamber on the 2nd November, 1893), it was advisable "until the interests of the powerful Empire of China with those of the United Kingdom," or, which is more likely, was it owing to "divergencies of action or opinion attributable to the fact that the general interests of the Empire have to prevail at times over local opinions, rather than that he 'had other desires at heart than those which tend to cement the good relations between Her Majesty's Government and the Imperial Government of China' and which, according to Sir N.R. O'Connor, "make towards the development of the trade and prosperity of Great Britain?" It is usually somewhat injudicious to endeavour to lay down theories for the success or non-success of the policy pursued by our government, but we have no hesitation in asserting that, as far as its policy in respect to the opening of the West River has been concerned it was a mistake to have dealt with China as though we were negotiating with a powerful Empire, and it was equally injudicious to make too much out of the "general interests of the Empire." It would have been better to have secured half a loaf than manoeuvre for all the plums and come out of the scramble with nothing at all.

In Sir Nicholas O'Connor's words "the powerful Empire of China" we have the clue to the whole string of diplomatic muddles and disasters of recent years. Our rulers have been imbued with the conviction that China was a powerful nation, and dealt with her accordingly, while all the time the whole fabric of government was rotten to the core, the people concerned only in their own affairs, the vast Celestial army a "paper force," pure and simple, and the navy useless for China and no danger to other nations. Russia and France long ago took the correct measure of China, and so did Japan. Germany was slower to grasp the situation; she did so, however, before it was too late; while the somnolent lion has been the last to discover that in reckoning upon the might and majesty of China he was virtually rendering himself as much a laughingstock as the old woman who counted her chickens before they were hatched, and ultimately found the eggs were all addled.

Another ultimatum! It is only the other day we presented an ultimatum to the Chinese Government, to obtain satisfaction for the massacre at Kuching; then we sent a nasty "chit" to the Government of Venezuela, and finally we hear that the king of Coomavie was favoured with a Foreign Office blitz doux offering to take care of him and his domains, which he declined with thanks, and added that he was ready and quite willing to fight a pitched battle with all the warriors England may be pleased to send to his country. It would seem that Lord Salisbury has his hands very full at the present time: Asiatic crises in Turkey; awkward and very knotty questions to settle with Russia; France ready to smite us hip and thigh, if she gets half a chance; Venezuela bucking against reasonable demands for justice, and, last but not least, the King of Coomavie overwhelmed with indignation, and itching to get at us. England's cup of bitterness would, indeed, appear to be just now full to overflowing. Let us hope it will be a case of oil being wrought that good may come therefrom.

ANOTHER TYPHOON.

Senior Joré de Navarro, Spanish Consul at this port, has courteously favoured us with copies of the following telegram, received from Manila:-

"BINONDO, November 1st, 4 p.m.
"There are evident signs of another depression to the N.N.E. in the Pacific, which lies off the north coast of Luzon."

"BINONDO, November 2nd, 8.10 a.m.
"The storm announced yesterday evening, last night crossed the northern provinces of Luzon and it is now to the N.N.W. of Luzon, near the coast."

The Observatory officials report to-day:-
On the 2nd at 10.30 a.m. the red drum was hoisted. A typhoon then appeared to be situated near the Billaguan Channel. At 11.30 a.m., strong N. winds, perhaps a gale, cloudy and squally prevailing. Strong winds and gales from N. and N.E. probably general along the China coast between Shanghai and Hainan.
At 4 p.m. the barometer was steady.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

It was blowing so hard down-river to-day that the Chinese-owned steamer Winglung, which left for Canton at 2 a.m., put back to Hongkong at noon, with every appearance of having had a "dusting."

We read in a Calcutta paper that at Bombay on the 9th ultimo, the trial of F. X. Possele for the murder of Anacleto Duarte in May last was brought to a close, with a unanimous verdict of guilty. Prisoner was accordingly sentenced to be hanged.

The following, from the Torrey Straits Pilot of the 12th, will interest our Japanese friends:-
The Hon. John Douglas has handed us for publication the following telegram he received from the Premier:-
"The Government of South Australia request me to let it be known at Thursday Island that Japanese must not in future rely on obtaining licenses in the colony for pearl fishing in the Northern Territory."

The advertisement of the Boa Vista Hotel, Macao, appears in another column. This favourable report of visitors to the "Gem of the Orient" is now under new and experienced management, and it is now, in every respect, a first-class hotel, wherein the best of wines only are supplied, food of the best quality and the bedrooms, parlours, verandahs and reading rooms all elegantly and lavishly furnished. With the Boa Vista as it now is, Macao is really worth visiting.

CHEVALIER de Koutski, after seeing Macao and Canton, and incidentally capturing the residents of those places with his exquisite playing, has returned to Hongkong, where he is to remain until Thursday. Last evening he delighted the members of the German Club and their friends with his playing, rendering, among other gems, Mozart's Sonata Pathétique in his unsurpassable manner. He has made arrangements to give a farewell recital at the Theatre Royal next Wednesday evening, assisted once again by the principal amateurs of this Colony. The Chevalier's remarks of this concert that it is his "real farewell concert," relating in support of this the story told of Madame Patti in New York. She was advertised to give her "farewell concert." After this her managers announced that "by special request Madame Patti would give another concert" etc., and after a crowded house had been satisfied, the public of that metropolis was informed that "the real farewell concert" would be given. The concert on Wednesday evening will be the "real farewell concert," and no one that enjoys listening to poetical piano-playing should neglect this opportunity.

FURTHER inquiry regarding the increased prices demanded by the coolie head-men for unloading coal does not clear matters up very much. The manager of the Mitsui Bussan Kaisha, in answer to inquiries made this morning, knew nothing about the matter. His comrade had been informed by the head-coolies working their cargoes that in the event of the other importers paying the enhanced rates he must demand more, as the increase has been decided upon by the coolie guild, but he is not inclined to take any prominent part in the business. The manager of the company, however, stated he does not intend to comply with the demands of the coolies, though, as he has had no information save what he has seen in the Telegraph, he does not know what steps he may have to take. The manager of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha has not yet been asked to pay the increased rates, and he does not know what steps he will take. He is inclined to think that the commercial community will not accept the demand on such short notice, though the head-men have some cause for their complaint, as, by the new regulations relating to coolie lodging-houses issued by the Sanitary Board, they have to provide more room for their coolies. The guild has issued a manifesto, or notice, in Chinese, setting forth its reasons for the action taken, but he had not yet seen the translation and did not know whether the reasons are weighty enough to cause their acceptance by the coal importers. He is inclined to think that the increased charge will not be agreed to.

The first concert of the Philharmonic Society will be given on the 23rd inst.

THE FOOTBALL CHALLENGE CUP COMPETITION.

THE Committee of the Hongkong Football Challenge Cup drew for the first and second rounds this afternoon. Seventeen teams have entered, so it has been arranged that in the first round 15 teams should have byes, the two teams to meet being 35th Company S.D., R.A., and E. Company, R.B. The Mission steam-launch Day Spring will call alongside any vessel hoisting the answering pennant, between 9 and 10.30 a.m., on Sunday, to convey men ashore to the 11 o'clock service, returning about 12.30 p.m.

At present the chief topics of conversation in native commercial circles in Nagasaki, says the Express, are the construction of the new water works reservoir, and the dredging of the harbour. A scheme for the latter project has already been placed before Governor Onomori, and the matter appears to be now fairly started.

A GANG of burbairns (ever) has been arrested in Kobe. Their modus operandi was simple. They just sent empty lighters to vessels discharging cargo, and, when filled up, took them to Hongo. They were captured by the police on account of a couple of hundred bags of rice consigned to foreign firms which mysteriously disappeared.

THE arrangements for the Scotch Ball in Bunko are progressing favourably, and the Stam Observer has no doubt the St. Andrew's Society will do their utmost to make this year's ball as successful as those of previous years. The Ball is to be given in the Custom House, which has been kindly placed at the disposal of the Society, for Friday the 29th instant.

In his official report, dated the 16th inst., and given in a Japanese paper, Governor Kikawa states that Liu Yan Fak proposed surrendering to Commander Aichi on the 10th Oct. Owing to the indecorous terms of his letter, however, Vice-Governor Takashima made that officer send a refusal. Two days later, on the 12th, the Black-Flag leader tried to surrender to the officer in command of the Imperial Guards, but with a like result.

WINX: Say, old chap, heard the latest about the official 'house' to find a 'way up' welcome for O'Connor when he drops in here on route to London?

JINX: No! I thought the whole scheme had 'gone under' long ago.

WINX: Jussu, old boy, it has fallen as flat as a pancake.

JINX: Capital! What earthly reason was there for attempting such a thing?

WINX: Tried hard to guess, but am at last bound to say 'no savee!'

It is stated that the Treaty between Japan and Germany, on the same lines as the British Treaty, has already been concluded, but that Germany insists on some additional provisions being inserted to which Japan demurs.

Communications are, according to the Kobe Chronicle, passing between the plenipotentiaries for Japan and the home Government on these points, which cause some delay. The Treaty with France is reported to be wholly completed, and it will probably be the next Treaty to be promulgated. Negotiations with Holland and Denmark are making rapid progress, and the Treaties with those countries are expected to be published simultaneously with that of France, before the end of this year. The Treaties with Austria-Hungary, Spain and Portugal are to be taken in hand in the spring of next year.

HEAVY WEIGHTS IN COURT.

Cyril Holdsworth, the Manager of the Mica Works, was summoned by John Andrew, at the Magistracy this morning for using abusive words and for having in a manner likely to cause a breach of the peace, on the 20th October.

The complainant stated "I was sitting in the billiard room of the Hongkong Hotel between 12 and 1 o'clock of the 20th October with a couple of friends, when the defendant came in and abused me without cause. He came up to me at once and called me a d-d liar. I do not remember what other words he used. I told him I did not want to speak to him."

Pressed by the Magistrate, Mr. Andrew thought the words used were "you are a d-d d-d liar." He was sure of the word liar but could not recollect the exact adjective.

At this stage the complainant was questioned by the defendant as to some transaction in asbestos where in the defendant claimed that the complainant had not told the exact truth. The defendant finally said that the two tons of asbestos over which a summary Court case was pending, was delivered in May or June.

Mr. Lang, who was in the hotel in company with the defendant, heard the quarrel and heard the defendant use the word "liar" though he did not remember how it was qualified. These were the exact words used. He made no attempt to break the peace. He only told the complainant what he thought he was.

The defendant said that if the complainant did not remember the exact words he said, he called him a "d-d contemptible liar." These were the exact words used. He made no attempt to break the peace. He only told the complainant what he thought he was.

His Worship:-That will do. That is language that is calculated to cause a breach of the peace, Defendant:-But, your Worship.

His Worship:-That will do. You certainly used language you had no business to use in a public place. You must enter into your own recognisance for $100 and find two securities for $50 each, to be of good behaviour for six months. Defendant:-Thank you, your Worship.

the latter rate shares are wanted. An extraordinary general meeting of shareholders will be called to consider the matter.
